In 2018 UN Women worked across the humanitarian, development, peace and security nexus to support national efforts to accelerate the Sustainable Development Goals. UN Women worked with national actors, development partners, civil society and academia in building an enabling policy and social environment for women’s empowerment, and in addressing root causes of gender inequality. This included gender-responsive service delivery interventions for Lebanese and refugee communities.

IMPACT 2018

Economic Empowerment

UN Women supported women’s productivity and control over and access to economic resources (targeting Lebanese and refugees). This included: strengthened women entrepreneurs’ access to markets and financial products; creation of mentorship programmes and job placements within private sector companies; the development of social enterprise business models and technical support to women led cooperatives.

Gender-Based Violence (GBV)

UN Women rolled out comprehensive referral services, psycho-social support, rights awareness-raising and prevention sessions for Lebanese nationals and refugees. This was paired with work on engaging men and boys as allies in violence prevention.

Women’s Political Participation

UN Women led the development of evidence-based information on administrative measures to boost women’s candidature ahead of the parliamentary elections. Capacity building, including public speaking and campaign strategies was provided for women candidates, both party-affiliated and independents. Engagement with journalists on gender-sensitive and responsive elections coverage.

Women, Peace and Security

UN Women supported the development of Lebanon’s first National Action Plan (NAP) on UNSCR 1325, led by the National Commission for Lebanese Women (NCLW) and in partnership with UNDP, ESCWA, UNFPA, UNIFIL and OHCHR; the NAP is a national commitment to women’s inherent leadership role in reconciliation, peacebuilding and mediation. In partnership with UNIFIL in South Lebanon, UN Women supported women’s engagement in conflict resolution and facilitated the creation of conflict-related early warning systems.

Policy Advocacy and Addressing Social Norms

UN Women worked with men and women to address root causes of inequalities, assess masculinities and implement community-based initiatives and dialogues that further gender equality and break down harmful stereotypes and social norms. UN Women supported national coalitions to increase advocacy on revision of laws and policies, notably child marriage and women’s nationality rights which have both been submitted to parliament.
