Ms. Paulina Padilla
Specialist at World Economic Forum

Paulina Padilla Ugarte is a Specialist of the Education, Gender and Work Initiative at the World Economic Forum. She is responsible for overseeing public and private programming on education, gender and employment issues at annual meetings and regional summits. She also supports the production of team insight products such as the Global Gender Gap Report and monitors developments in the areas of gender equality and employment, skills, and education.

She holds a Master of Science in International Relations from the London School of Economics and Political Science.